Election/Restrictions

This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention:

Species I drawn to claims 1-7, which are directed to a “droplet deposition apparatus... wherein each chamber is associated with means for effecting droplet ejection from said orifice simultaneously with said fluid flow through the chamber, the resistance to flow of said inlet and outlet manifolds (is) being chosen such that the (static) pressure at the orifice of any chamber in the array due to the flow varies between any two chambers by an amount less than that which would give rise to significant differences in droplet ejection properties between said two chambers in the array.”

Species II drawn to claims 8-13, which are directed to a droplet deposition apparatus comprising an array of droplet fluid chambers angled to the horizontal, each chamber being supplied with droplet fluid from a common fluid manifold parallel to the array... wherein properties of the inlet manifold varying in a direction lying parallel to the array in such a way as to substantially match the rate of pressure loss along the manifold due to viscous losses in the manifold to the rate of increase of static pressure along the manifold due to gravity.”

Species III drawn to claims 14, 15-17, 38-44, which are directed to a droplet deposition apparatus comprising means for preventing the flow of liquid from the first to the second fluid reservoir when the pump means is not operating.

Species IV drawn to claims 16, 18, 23-30, 45-50, 57-64 which are directed to a droplet deposition apparatus with pump means for conveying fluid and controlling fluid level.

Art Unit: 2853

Species V drawn to claims 19-22 and 51-55 which are directed to “temperature control means for controlling the temperature of fluid conveyed from the second fluid reservoir to the first fluid reservoir.”

Furthermore, figures 4 and 6 are drawn to two different species of printheads and figures 8, 9a, 9b, 10a, 10b, and 11 are drawn to 6 different species of fluid supply systems.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable. Currently, claims 31-34 are generic.

Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.
